Art Unit: 2876

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1,4,5,13,14,15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lizotte 6,833,911. Lizotte discloses that maintaining databases of "ballistic fingerprints" in which images of bullets and cartridges covered from crime scenes are well known (col 1 lines 49-63). These databases are used for matching firearms to crime scenes by comparing spent cartridges and/or bullets from a crime scene to the database which contains the image data of previously spent cartridges and/or bullets.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 2,3,6-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lizotte 6,833,911. Lizotte discloses that which is seen above. Lizotte does not specifically disclose maintaining at least one spent cartridge casing as in claim 2. However, maintaining the at least one spent cartridge is well known. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to maintain the at least one spent cartridge to have physical evidence for comparison. Lizotte does not specifically disclose the protective case as in claim 3. Lizotte does not specifically disclose that the database is maintained on an optical disc as in claim 7. However, optical discs such as read only CDs and "jewel" cases for optical discs are old and well known. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to place the optical disc in a jewel case in order to protect the disc. Optical discs are known to be non-volatile (claim 6) and read only CDs are non-erasable (claim 8). Lizotte does not specifically disclose that the integrity of the databases is protected (claim 9) or that there is human readable information in the database. Password access to databases is old and well known. It is also old and well known to caption images in databases (claims 10,12). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the database with a password to control access to the database and thereby increase the integrity of the database. It would also have been obvious to caption the ballistic fingerprint images with human readable text in order to allow the human operator to identify the image. Lizotte does not disclose specifically that breech markings are maintained in the database. However, this, too, is old and well known and would have been obvious at the time of Lizotte to maintain breech markings in order to further identify a matching firearm.
